

JUDGES TO LOSE 'TURNBACK'

216 Officials For Election Tuesday, But Pay Uncertain

Judges and Clerks Named for Special Senatorial Election

FEES TOTAL $300

But County Judge Higga-son Hasn't Announced His Decision

The list of 216 election officials for the special senatorial vote in Hempstead county next Tuesday, January 12, has been completed by the Board of Election Commissioners, and was released to The Star Thursday.

Whether or not the officials would draw the fees allowed them by law for election services, remained a mystery Thursday. The sheriff is allowed $1 each of the three judges $1.50, and the two clerks $1.50 each, making a total fee expense of $8.50 at each voting box. There are 36 boxes, making a total potential fee-bill of $306.

County Judge L. E. Higga-son has agreed to allow claims for the printing of ballots and other election supplies, but has not committed himself regarding payment for officials' services.

U. S. Arms Parley Delegates

These five Americans are expected to play important roles at the world conference on limitation of armaments which opens at Geneva, February 2. They are (1) Charles G. Dawes, colorful U. S. ambassador to England, who heads the delegation; (2) Mary Emma Woolley, president of Mt. Holyoke College and an ardent peace advocate; (3) Hugh Gibson, U. S. ambassador to Belgium and shining light of the diplomatic service; (4) Norman H. Davis, former undersecretary of state and advisor to President Wilson; (5) Senator Claude Swanson of Virginia.

Flier Found Dead In Wrecked Plane

Body Wedged in Cockpit of Charred Plane in Mountains

ELKINS, W. Va.—(AP)—Wedged in the cockpit of his wrecked plane, the body of Lieutenant E. H. Bobbitt, missing army pilot, was found Wednesday on one of the highest peaks of the Cheat mountains.

A farmer and a trapper came upon the wreckage while tramping through the hills in search of the aviator, who disappeared Christmas day while en route from Selfridge Field, Mich., to his home in Hot Springs, Va.

The body was charred almost beyond recognition. The plane, with a broken wing, was badly burned.

The ship apparently struck a tree on Pool's Knob and crashed, bottom down, in the bushes.

Three miles south, Bobbitt would have found a clearing on which he could have landed—the only clearing in that part of the mountains.

Bradley Sheriff Is Removed Thursday

Embezzlement of $42,000 Is Charged to John C. Lee of Warren

WARREN.—(AP)—Sheriff John C. Lee of Bradley county, was removed from office Thursday following the return of two indictments charging the embezzlement of some $42,000 and for failing to pay over county funds.

The county grand jury returned the indictments at a night session Wednesday night after a protracted investigation revealed the alleged shortage.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Senate Sidetracks Moses Controversy

President Pro Tempore Election Passed Over as Order of Business

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—The determined and silent contest of the Western Republican Independents against the re-election of George Moses, Republican, of New Hampshire, as president pro tempore was shoved aside Wednesday by the Senate, leaving Moses in the office.

Twenty-five ballots failed to produce a majority and break the deadlock over election of this honorary officer, and in the absence of an election Moses, who called the Western Independents "sons of the wild jackass," carries on.

A measure sponsored by Senator Norris of Nebraska, a leader of the Republican Independent group fighting Moses, was used to displace the president pro tempore controversy which has been the order of business of the Senate since it convened last month.

Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, moved to take up the Norris resolution to amend the constitution to fix new meeting times for Congress. Norris fought a ruling by Vice President Curtis that a majority vote for the McKellar motion would displace the contest over the election of the president pro tempore. Curtis was sustained on his ruling, 64 to 17.

McKellar announced he would revive the Moses issue later, but a heavy calendar of business is approaching the Senate and the prospects for another vote soon seems dim.

Noah Webb Buried 10 A. M. Thursday

Legion Post and Guard Company Squad Attend Veteran's Funeral

Noah Webb, who was killed in a shooting affray near Doyle, northern Hempstead county, Tuesday night, was buried at 10 o'clock Thursday morning with a military service at Avery's Chapel, near McCaskill.

The service for the war veteran was in charge of Leslie Huddleston, post of the American Legion, and the legionnaires were accompanied by a firing squad from Company A of the National Guard, also of Hope, who fired a last salute over the grave.

Oklahoma Man to Teach at Arkansas University

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—(AP)—H. S. Allen of Tulsa, Okla., has assumed the duties of instructor of English and German at the University of Arkansas, succeeding Roland Benjamin Schaefer, who committed suicide on New Year's day. Dean Virgil Jones of the College of Arts and Sciences announced the selection of Allen Wednesday.

Work Is Demanded By Unemployed in Congress Petition

Thousands Follow Pittsburgh Priest on March to Capitol

TO CALL ON HOOVER

March in Vivid Contrast to That on Day Congress Opened

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—A peace time army marched in orderly array to the capitol Thursday to demand work.

Tramping four abreast, thousands followed Father James R. Cox, Pittsburgh priest, who presented two Pennsylvania members of Congress a petition, asking jobs and federal help for those unable to find them.

This journey was in vivid contrast to the demonstrators that concentrated here at the beginning of congress.

Extra police stood about the capitol, but they were there more as traffic directors in anticipation of trouble.

Father Cox was expected to go to the white house and present his petition to the president in person.

Farm Agents Hold District Meeting

16 Southwest Arkansas Counties Represented at Pine Bluff Session

PINE BLUFF.—(AP)—A two days' conference of farm and home demonstration agents from 16 counties in southwest Arkansas opened at the Hotel Pines today. Visitors, including more than a dozen state and national agricultural workers were entertained at 6 Wednesday night with a "family dinner."

The morning program was featured with a talk by Dan T. Gray, dean of the University of Arkansas College of Agriculture, on "Strengthening the Extension Organization." His address was followed by talks by T. Roy Reid and Miss Connie J. Bonnelgel, heads of farm and home demonstration work in Arkansas. The afternoon program was devoted to conferences for farm agents and home demonstration agents. A special recreational program, directed by W. J. Jernigan and L. C. Baber state 4-H club workers, was given at the dinner Wednesday night.

Discussions of tubercular control in cattle will head the program Thursday conducted by Dr. J. H. Bux, state veterinarian, and a discussion of "Arkansas Outlook," will be given by Dr. Charles F. Searles. Special 4-H club conferences also will be held Thursday.

Tax Commission Preparing Blanks

Forms to Be Used By Corporations in Listing Assessments

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The Arkansas Tax Commission is preparing for mailing blank forms for use by more than 5,000 domestic and foreign corporations in making a return of their assessments.

The forms will be sent out by January 15. When they are returned, the commission makes the assessments, and statements of taxes due are then mailed to the corporations for payment between July 10 and August 10. Failure to pay by the latter date causes a 25-per cent penalty.

About $3,250,000 a year is collected from the franchise tax.

Grand Jury Fails To Indict Parke

News Agency Owner Not to Face Charges Following Fatal Accident

PARIS.—The Grand Jury Wednesday failed to indict A. W. Parke, Little Rock, on a charge of manslaughter growing out of a fatal accident December 23, when Alfred Freeman, alleged to have been struck by a car driven by Parke, died shortly afterward. The Grand Jury finished its work about 4 p. m. Wednesday.

The accident occurred about 7:30 p. m. on Highway 22, east of Paris and near Delaware. Freeman and his son-in-law, J. M. Martin, had stopped on the highway in a truck to repair a tire. Parke's car struck them from behind and dragged Freeman for several yards. Martin was only slightly injured.

Going South?

"How about a ride?" asks young Master Harry Kelly, a lad of the north who is considering shedding his heavy overcoat as he enters fairer climes. The picture was snapped on U. S. highway 19 near Augusta, Ga., and shows something new in highway markers. The numeral designating the highway is made of glass reflectors. They catch the beams of headlights and make the number stand out at night.

Hills Scoured For Lost Women Fliers

Cavalry and Poses Fail to Find Trace of Missing Plane

NEWVILLE, Pa.—(AP)—Reports reaching here from searching parties said the bodies of Mrs. Ruth Stewart and Mrs. Debbie Stanford, missing aviators, were recovered from their wrecked plane by J. Paul Jenkins, of Philadelphia, an autogiro pilot and were being brought here. Jenkins led a group to the scene of the crash after sighting the wreckage Thursday morning.

HARRISBURG, Pa.—(AP)—Through rain and low-hanging fog, cavalry and posses Wednesday covered many miles of wild woodland between Sterrett's and Doubling Gap, southwest of this city in search of two women fliers believed victims of an airplane disaster. Six planes were driven back by a low ceiling.

The women, Mrs. Ruth Stewart of St. Louis, and Mrs. Debbie Stanford of Indianapolis, accompanied by experienced fliers, left St. Louis Thursday announcing they proposed a flight from New York to Buenos Aires.

The plane last was seen by Gentry Shelton, St. Louis, who was piloting Mrs. Stewart's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Woerner, in an accompanying plane. Shelton landed at the Harrisburg airport but did not give the alarm until evening. He said the missing ship had cleared the last ridge of the mountains before a cloud bank separated them, and that he had expected the women to put into port before night.

Wednesday night Shelton asked points along the Atlantic seaboard for reports of any planes seen putting to sea. The gasoline supply of the missing plane would have been exhausted before dawn.

During the day, Shelton and five other pilots made flights over the area near which the lost plane disappeared. All were balked by low visibility.

With the airplanes fog-bound, posses directed by deputy sheriffs and two details of Pennsylvania National Guard cavalry, bore the brunt of the search.

Mrs. Stewart, 26, is the wife of Alcee W. Stewart, Jr. She received her pilot's license in February, 1929, qualifying a year later for a transport license. She finished in two air derbies and has 700 hours in the air to her credit.

Japanese Troopers Take City South of Chinchow

MUKDEN, Manchuria.—(AP)—Japanese troops captured the town of Hulutao, a port only a short distance south of Chinchow on the Gulf of Liaotung Wednesday. There was no resistance.

Marshal Chung Hsueh-Liang, who commanded the Chinese force which evacuated Chinchow, planned to make Hulutao a seaport rivaling Dairen as an outlet for Manchurian trade.

A company of infantry marched in Wednesday evening and took over the Chinese military and naval stores at Hulutao.

Lawyers to Seek Habeas Corpus Writ for Mahatma Gandhi

(By Associated Press)

Five bombs were found in a train at Calcutta Thursday before they exploded and a search was begun for the bomb planters.

With Nationalists under cover, despite the trade paralysis, resulting from the boycott of British goods, authorities are confident that they could meet any emergency.

Lawyers announced Thursday that they would seek habeas corpus writs for Gandhi on next Monday.

Kiwanis Attends Texarkana Session

Hope Club Assists Neighbors Install Officers for 1932

Hope Kiwanians met with the Texarkana club Wednesday to assist them in installing their 1932 officers and directors. This Texarkana event took the place of the regular meeting of the Hope club.

The Rev. Geo. F. X. Strassner, secretary of the Hope club, performed the ceremony in a brief but appropriate address. He outlined the duties of the officers, and then charged the club members with their responsibility in keeping the club functioning at its best.

Dr. R. R. Kirkpatrick, retiring president, pinned the presidents pin upon Dr. Charles Adna Smith, who will preside over that club during the coming year. Others who were installed Wednesday are, Rev. T. J. Wilbanks, district trustee; and Wallace Coffman, secretary. All have visited the Hope club several times.

Mrs. Alma Mitchell, who formerly played the pipe organ at the Saenger Theatre here, accompanied at the piano, her sister, Miss Carrie Merle Hatch, who sang three songs, and who also has acquaintances in Hope.

The next meeting of the Hope club will be Friday, January 15th. Dewey Hendrix is preparing an interesting program. The board of directors is to meet Thursday, January 14th, in Wellman's store.

Alleged Hijacker Faces Many Counts

Wife Placed Under Technical Arrest by Texarkana Officers

Investigation into a series of robberies with firearms in East Texas and Southwest Arkansas centered in Texarkana Wednesday when Walter Turner, alias Coy Lane, alias Chas. Turner, alias W. E. Turner, alias Sheriff Taylor, alias Little Sheriff Coy Lane, was brought here from Hope, where he was arrested Tuesday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Clarence E. Baker, Special Officer Wenne of the Missouri Pacific railroad, and Deputy Sheriff Shipp.

The officers at Hope arrested Turner on information from Van Zandt officers, who spread a wide net for him in October after W. J. N. Stoudemire, Wills Point merchant, was tied and gagged in his store there when the place was robbed.

More recent robberies at Wills Point and Canton, in Van Zandt county, including daylight robbery of a filling station at Wills Point in which $45 was taken from the proprietor who was knocked unconscious with a heavy gun when he resisted the robbery, have been blamed on Turner, City Marshal Jim H. Harris, of Wills Point, and Chief Deputy Sheriff Ira Burnett, of Van Zandt county, said here Wednesday. They arrived in Texarkana to work with Texas police in investigating cases in which Turner is believed involved.

Spurgeon Herrington, fingerprint expert with the Texas police department, Wednesday took prints of Turner, who gave his age at 24 years, and said his home is at Patmos, Ark.

Turner's wife, Margaret McGee Turner, about 20, a blond, arrived at Texas police headquarters early Wednesday to visit her husband and was immediately placed under technical arrest by the officers. The woman likely will be returned to Van Zandt county later in the day along with her husband, after investigations started here are completed, the officers said.

Herrington said Wednesday Turner is known to have been a frequent visitor to Texarkana. Herrington was making efforts to connect him with a series of burglaries and robberies committed here during the holiday season.

Byron Simpson, 15, Hope high school student, unwittingly ran afoul of the law but was immediately dismissed when he appeared at police headquarters here with Mrs. Turner. Simpson told officers he drove the woman's automobile to Texarkana after she assured him he would be paid for the services. He left police headquarters in a run after officers accepted his explanation. "And I don't intend to get into another deal like this soon," the boy said.—Texarkana Press.

"Ease Up" Is Plea as Lobby Gathers to Find Fund Gone

County Judges Ask to Mandate Its Cut—But Money Isn't There

BLACKWOOD SPEAKS

Highway Chairman Holds Refunding Issue to Pay District Bonds

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The Arkansas County Judges association Wednesday record Thursday instilling upon the state a plea for a refunding of $2 million dollars in refunding bonds as county "turnback money."

Chairman Dwight H. Blackwood, of the State Highway Commission, who attended the meeting, said he did not think they would receive any money from bond sales this year, but pleaded the commission to payment of the past-due "turnback" in the event of future bond sales.

"Turnback" Shipped

Mr. Blackwood said the state would get the "turnback" only if event new bonds were sold or the revenues of the State Highway Department are sufficient to meet state obligations and road maintenance.

While admitting the state owed the county judges the "turnback" money, Mr. Blackwood explained that the State Highway Department uses the bond issue proceeds only to refund bonds of old road districts, which otherwise would have defaulted.

"It was just a question of retaining our credit through the sale of those bonds," Mr. Blackwood said. "Had we not refunded those old obligations, we all would have been in a sadder plight."

Under the association's action, its president, Judge J. C. Ragdale of Union county, an ad committee will continue to press its claim for the turnback until it is paid.

Mr. Higga-son Squirms

Several judges, among them Judge Crow of Saline, Judge Gillison of Chicot, and Judge Higga-son of Hempstead, requested the press to "ease up" on "putting across the idea that the highway turnback money is squandered."

A vote showed that 23 of the judges present are paying county agricultural agents, and that 18 have not been paying the agents because of lack of revenue. Several counties did not vote appropriations for this purpose.

New Shoe Shop to Be Opened in City

Henry Hitt Announces New Store for 109 West Second St.

A new and exclusive shoe store for Hope was announced Thursday when Henry Hitt announced that he had severed his connection with the Geo. W. Robison Department Store, and had rented a store building at 109 West Second street. Hitt sold his interest in the Robison Department Store to Geo. W. Robison, and left their employ Wednesday.

Hitt has made arrangements with the Brown-Built shoe people of St. Louis, whereby he is to open an exclusive shoe store here, as soon as the store building can be remodeled, possibly within three or four weeks, he said. The store is to be named Hitt's Brown-Built Shoe Store, carrying a complete stock of men's, women's and children's shoes, both in staple styles, and in novelties. This will be one of more than 1,000 Brown-Built shoe stores, according to Mr. Hitt, all of which are operated by a local man, but which have proven successful in places that have proven successful in these other shoe stores; and which carry Brown company shoes exclusively.

Hitt had been connected with the Geo. W. Robison store for almost thirteen years. Before that time he was a citizen of Prescott, being connected with the First State Bank there. He has had considerable experience in shoe fitting and selling, while he was connected with Robison's store here. He will also have another experienced shoe fitter in the store, he said. The exact opening date will be announced later, when the building has been arranged and when the new stock arrives.

Government Begins at Home!

Coming to this newspaper last Tuesday, R. E. Jackson of Columbus made a statement every thoughtful citizen should read twice.

Hempstead county needs a constructive program made of its own resources and needs. It is unwise to allow our problems to go neglected, while we spend our time working over state and national ones.

The wisdom of Mr. Jackson's statement appears in the fact that only in our city and county governments are we asked to appear personally. Beyond these, we empower delegates to speak for us. We follow the course of state government through reports from our delegates in the legislature; and national affairs to leaders only remotely dependent on our vote; and we appreciate foreign relations only as they are revealed in the notes and letters of our diplomats.

Local government, its issues, its success or failure, is the only thing in our national life for which an immediate remedy lies in the hands of the common citizen. For while we may talk freely about the tariff, he knows nothing about it and therefore nobody pays him any attention; but the facts about his county government he can quickly and easily learn, and when a citizens starts talking about the facts of local government sooner or later he gets surprising results.

Whatever attention this newspaper has attracted with its editorial comment is due to the fact that it has tackled the problems about which accurate information could be obtained. A generation ago it was customary for a country editor to wax brilliantly rhetorical, blazng away with abuse against some local politician, who replied, equally rhetorical, with the facts about some waste of public funds, some abuse of petty power, and lays those facts before the public as methodically as a surgeon in the operating room. Times have changed. The politician no longer replies to an editor's criticism, but hunts out the most remote fork of the creek to cry an argument unhampered and unembarrassed by facts.

Hempstead county needs a world of something beside politics, on which she is over-fed. We have seen county government in recent years decline and decay, supporting officeholders at the cost of every worthwhile activity that the community is expected to engage in.

Counties around us, less populous, less rich, have retained and built up their county farm and home demonstration agents' work. Hempstead hasn't given tax-support to such a program for the last three years.

You may not agree with us about the county agents. You may deny that they are either necessary or desirable. Still, you will hardly fall out with us when we say that if Hempstead county is getting more tax money now than ever before in her history—as she is—certainly she is doing less, and the tax money therefore is being wasted. And you probably will agree with us that as long as money is being thrown away in other directions it might be thrown away to a good and permanent purpose on the county agents' work.

But county agents don't make votes. Good, all-weather local highways don't make as many quick votes as a few more men building up graded dirt roads each spring.

We don't have county agents, and we don't have good county roads, simply because that calibre of leadership which was once pursued in rural communities like Hempstead county and blazed forth over the nation as statesmanship, hasn't been heard from in many an election.

Hitler on Germany's Bonds

DOLF HITLER, head of the German Fascists, tells an American correspondent in Berlin that American bondholders need not fear for their money if the Fascists come to power in Germany, unless the world accepts the French thesis that political debts must take priority over commercial debts.

This sounds well, but it is rather cold comfort. For that reason so far has been accepted unthinkingly, and French influence will probably see to it that it is accepted again.

What disturbs Europe and America is the thought that if Hitler's group comes to power there will be an open clash over reparations that might even lead to war—in which case neither political nor commercial debts would be worth the paper they are written on.

Russia as a Customer

THE Soviet government has ordered its commercial agent in America, the Amtorg Trading Corporation, to reduce its staff by 50 per cent. This is because Russia is buying far less in this country than it did a little while ago. In the first 10 months of last year, for instance, it placed orders for $49,400,000 worth of goods; in the same period in 1930 its orders totaled $102,800,000.

Amtorg explains that the decline is partly due to Russia's inability to get credits in this country—credits which are easily obtainable in Europe. In addition, the American campaign against the admission of Soviet products has operated to cut down Russian purchases.

Here is a point business men ought to ponder over. Russia could be an excellent customer—she has bought $200,000,000 worth of German goods this year, for example. But she will never be a good customer until we start treating her as a good customer ought to be treated.

Hartsfield Family Enjoy Christmas

37 Members of This Family Spend Christmas Near DeAnn

Christmas was a happy time for the W. J. Hartsfield family, who live near the DeAnn community, about 8 miles north of Hope. Not only was this a day of feasting, but a homecoming and reunion, attended by members of this family and many friends, totaling about 30 in number.

The morning was spent in joyous greetings, pleasant reminiscences and in preparation of the bountiful mid-day feast, which all were anxious to partake.

Mr. and Mrs. Hartsfield are 76 and 72 years of age. They have been residents of Hempstead county their entire lives. This couple have nine children, forty-two grandchildren, three great grandchildren living, thirty-seven of whom were present on Christmas day.

Members of this family are more or less scattered, some of them live in California, some in Indiana, some in Oklahoma and some in Texas. In the evening a program of songs, recitations, readings and solos was rendered by the young people, much to the delight of the older ones.

Do You Remember?

Health fairly good in these parts at present, though we are sorry to report Mr. Sariv McWilliams on the sick list. L. E. Darwin and family visited at Meador, Ark. from Thursday to Sunday of last week.

Jimmie Rodgers from Helena, Ark., visited his mother, Mrs. Jettie Rodgers at this place for the past few days, leaving for home Sunday.

School opened up again Monday after being dismissed for two weeks for the Christmas holidays.

Mr. Wash Easter and family from Shreveport, La., visited his father and brother of this place a few days last week.

We had a fine Sunday school here Sunday and a fine attendance, although the weather was a little bad. Come on folks let's make this a banner year for Sunday school work.

J. M. McWilliams was dinner served Sunday with his son Earnest of Hope. Among the callers at the home of Early McWilliams Sunday afternoon was W. A. Walker, C. C. Bennett, J. M. McWilliams and Earnest McWilliams of Hope.

Grady Reese and family visited near Bodew Saturday night and Sunday. J. S. Reed is back at home from Hope where he has been at work as night watchman at the compress, the past two weeks.

Albert Smith and family visited his father Sunday, near Patmus.

Mrs. Lattie Byers and daughter, spent the past week end at this place with her husband Gifford Byers, but returned Sunday afternoon to her school at Guernsey.

ANN, FRANCES, LILLIE AND PHIL were sitting on the porch of the new house, looking at the new house. The new house was a big, white, two-story house with a red roof. It was the best house they had ever seen. They were all looking at it with great interest.

Ann was the first to speak. "It's just what we need," she said. "I've been telling you for months that we should get a new house. Now it's here."

Frances nodded. "I've been telling you for months that we should get a new house. Now it's here."

Lillie was the first to speak. "It's just what we need," she said. "I've been telling you for months that we should get a new house. Now it's here."

Phil was the first to speak. "It's just what we need," he said. "I've been telling you for months that we should get a new house. Now it's here."

GROVE

"But," said Ann, "you looked as if you were angry, or embarrassed, or something."

"I was, possibly. You told me not to look just then, but I did and got caught in the act. Also, I was slightly annoyed over the fact that people were staring at us and discussing us."

"She does stare," said Ann. "She hasn't taken her eyes away from me once since they sat down over there."

"And that," said he, "is the penalty of beauty, you know. But suppose you stop looking at her, and you won't know that she is looking at you."

Ann tried looking again at the mountain; but it had lost its Alpine glow and had become a forbidding thing, in cold blues and whites, as lonely as a mountain.

"She has such a bright, hard way of staring," Ann said. "It's sort of gleam on her eyes."

"I thought she was in love with you," said he. "How well do you know her, Phil?"

"My dear girl—odd how nothing can be so impatient as patience, heavily stressed—how well is one apt to know an office associate?"

"I thought she worked in the office across the hall."

"She does. We meet occasionally in the hall or in the elevator. Not long ago she lost the heel of her shoe in the downstairs entrance, and I took it around to the shoe-maker's for her. Since then, she stepped into my office one day to see the heel of her dress—or petticoat—that had ripped."

"Why didn't she see it in her own office?"

"Because there happened to be about a dozen or more people in her office, and I am alone in mine."

"Oh," said Ann. The girl had stopped staring and was writing something with a red fountain pen she had borrowed from her secret."

"Why didn't you tell me?" said Ann.

"Tell you what?"

"About the heel, and the ripped hem and all?"

Phil pressed his lips together, and straightened them to a smile, and shook his head slowly. He meant by so openly disparaging of Ann's intelligence, to shame her; but it seemed not to work that way.

"Why didn't you?" said Ann.

"Because I hadn't an idea that such minutiae would interest you. Also, I forgot it. Are you paying me the doubtful compliment of jealousy, or what is the object of this inquisition?"

The girl gave the note to the waiter.

Ann said, "You are jealous of me when no other man is concerned at all." The waiter, supercilious

HEALTHY—an attractive combination at best—had started toward their table, had grown shy, had paused to rearrange some flowers in a vase.

"You are jealous of Cooley and Mary-Frances and Grand and Rosalie."

Phil was about to say that her accusation was unjust and untrue, but the waiter spoke first. "Everything all right, sir?"

"Pretty view out east there," the waiter suggested.

Ann looked out east there. Phil said, "Yes." The waiter moved away.

"May I see that note, Phil?" Ann said.

"Shall I pass it across immediately? Or might I look at it first?"

"Read it yourself, first," said Ann.

"Some nonsense," he frowned, as he unfolded the tight two square inches of paper. He continued frowning as he read: "Darling sweetheart man: I didn't story to you, honestly I didn't. Call me up when you get home and I'll explain everything. Your L. It I think you are mad at I won't sleep a wink. Call up sure."

Semi-sensibleness was all that was ever claimed for Letty; but occasional cleverness had been claimed for Phil, and an assumption that he was smart enough to make his way in the world. He burned the note, right there in the ash tray, while Ann looked on.

"I think I'll go home," Ann said.

"Darling," Phil pleaded. "Don't please! I'll explain everything later."

A certain similarity to the wording of the note may be seen. But Ann, who had not read the note, liked the unusual "darling," and she liked, also, the eager promise to explain. She did not like the connotation of "everything," so she repeated it.

"Everything?"

Phil had gained time and found himself. "There is nothing to explain," he said. "After all, I am a lawyer, and I do try to observe some of the ethics of my profession."

"You didn't tell me that she was a client of yours."

"She isn't. But there happens to be another woman with a poor old blind mother—"

"See here, Ann, I have no right to go into this. If you insist—But why not take my word for it and trust me? Won't you please do that, dear?"

"Well, yes," said Ann. "Still I do think it is very strange that she should have to write notes about it in a place like this."

"She didn't have to," she is an extraordinarily silly little girl. She could have stopped in the office for a moment in the morning. I suspect that the sole reason for her sending the note was to make the boy see she is with jealous."

"Or not?" said Ann.

"Hardly. She's silly, but not catty, I believe. At any rate, you aren't jealous, are you, You Beautiful?"

"No," said Ann. "What's her name?"

"King, Miss King."

"What's her first name?"

"Letty, I believe she said. Hetty—Betty—something of the sort. I really don't remember. You aren't eating your pastry, dear. Don't you care for it? Shall I order something else for you?"

"No, thank you. I've had all I can eat. Get your check, Phil, and let's go."

"You've changed your mind about the dancing?" he asked hopefully as he beckoned for the waiter.

"I forgot. But, unless you want to, I think I'd rather go home."

As they went down the lantern-lit path toward Philip's car Letty King said to Kenneth Smith, "I'm all in, positively. I've got to get in early tonight, and catch up on my sleep. I've kind of got a headache."

On never fear
The coming year
You doubt your horoscope,
For all you need
For dream or deed
Is just a hint of hope!
Do not turn back
From the attack.
The doubt and dread conspire;
Hope on, you'll find
Your path will wind
To goals you most desire.
Be strong, be brave,
However grave
Events forebode your ill;
You'll find it true
Life's good to you.

The meeting was followed by a joint meeting of the Paisley and Brookwood study class, with Mrs. Gus Haynes as leader.

Mrs. R. V. Herndon was hostess on Wednesday afternoon to the members of the Friday Contract Bridge Club and a few special guests, at her home on South Main street. Contract Bridge was played from two tables, with Mrs. L. W. Young scoring high for the club and Mrs. Kline Snyder for the guests. Following a series of pleasant games, the guests were invited into the dining room, where a most tempting plate lunch was served.

The Bay View Reading Club held their first meeting of the New Year at the home of Mrs. R. M. LaGrone on North Hervey street, with the president, Mrs. Gus Haynes presiding over a short business period, responses to the roll call, were current events. At this time the meeting was turned over to Mrs. J. A. Henry, program leader for the afternoon, who had for her subject the interesting state of Arizona. Mrs. Henry gave some interesting experiences of her recent automobile trip through the state, followed by Miss Mamie Twitchell, who told of the Grand Canyon and the Painted Desert; The Arizona Indians and Indian lore furnished a most interesting topic by Mrs. W. A. Bowen. During the social hour, the hostess assisted by Miss Maggie Bell and Mrs. Robert LaGrone served delicious refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Long and little daughter of Detroit, Mich., were Thursday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. L. Jamison, en route to Florida where they will spend the winter.

Motion to Remove Officers Prepared

County Treasurer and Sheriff of Newton Co. Under Indictment

JASPER, Ark.—(P)—Prosecuting attorney Holt prepared to file a motion in circuit court here Thursday afternoon asking the removal of Curges Young, county treasurer, and Will Jones, sheriff and collector of Newton county, who had been indicted for embezzling and rendering false returns Wednesday.

There is an alleged shortage of some $12,000 in Young's accounts and over $9,000 in the accounts of Sheriff Jones.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting
Itching, bleeding, protruding piles are caused by bad circulation of the blood in the affected parts. The parts become weak, flabby, almost dead. Only an internal remedy can remove the cause—that's why salves, suppositories and cutting fail. Dr. Leonard's prescription, HEM-ROID, succeeds because it removes congestion, restores circulation, heals and strengthens the diseased parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record of quick ending even piles of long standing, that Ward & Son say one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile agony or money back. Adv.
